

What is Poetry Northwest?

Founded in 1959, Poetry Northwest is one of the nation's most prestigious magazines devoted to poetry. We've published many of the most important poets of the past forty years, including Nobel laureates Harold Pinter & Czeslaw Milosz, Pulitzer Prize winners John Berryman, Stanley Kunitz, Charles Wright, Mary Oliver, Richard Wilber, James Wright, & Theodore Roethke, & National Book Award winners William Stafford, Anne Sexton, Marilyn Hacker, & C.K. Williams—all alongside new, emerging, & established poets.

What makes Poetry Northwest so unique?

Poetry Northwest features the finest poetry by writers from all over. But that's not all. Book reviews, as well as essays by and about poets, & artists & nonartists in other disciplines (as their work relates to poetry), are included. The magazine aims to bridge the worlds of poetry & prose, & other arts, in an exciting new fashion, thereby reaching a diverse and growing community of writers and lovers of the literary arts.

2006 ADVERTISING RATES

Poetry Northwest is back!

Hailed in The Washington Post by former U.S. poet laureate Robert Pinsky as “very impressive,” the new Poetry Northwest has increased circulation over 400% since Volume 1, Number 1 of the new series went to press in March 2006. Our mission is to curate major poets and writers alongside unknown and emerging ones & to establish a dialogue between poetry & the other arts & civic life.

Why advertise in Poetry Northwest?

Poetry Northwest shows you to thousands of readers, from Seattle to Cape Cod, plus Britain & Europe, as well. Our audience is highly engaged with literature & culture. Over forty years of publication has put Poetry Northwest in the league of the world’s elite poetry journals. We’re distributed nationally in fine bookstores & grocery stores (such as New Seasons) by De Boer & Small Changes – Retail sales are strong.
